Resilience strategies for the regeneration of Cabassina Park in Corsico

Park Cabassina of Corsico is an area of recent transformation located in a densely populated neighborhood with a high presence of social housing and characterized by the presence of many public services. The course aims to support local communities in a process of local regeneration of the park toward the construction of a more sustainable urban system. Through a process of confrontation with local actors students have developed solutions to improve the environmental management and public use of the park.
